PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, February 24.—The President to-day sent to the Senate the following message, which was read in secret session, laid on the table and ordered to be printed. The Senate then removed from it the injunction of secrecy.

To the Senate of the United States:

I have received a copy of the resolution adopted by the Senate, on the 21st inst., as follows:

WHEREAS, We have read and considered the communication of the President, stating that he had removed E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, and has designated the Adjutant General of the Army to act as Secretary of War ad interim; therefore,

Resolved by the Senate of the United States, That under the Constitution and laws of the United States the President has no power to remove the Secretary of War and designate any other officer to perform the duties of that office ad interim.

This resolution, as confined to the power of the President to remove the Secretary of War and designate another officer to perform the duties of the office ad interim, by its preamble is made expressly applicable to the removal of Mr. Stanton and the designation to act ad interim of the Adjutant-General of the army. Without, therefore, attempting to discuss the general powers of removal to all officers upon which the subject refers, no expression of opinion is contained in the resolution. I shall confine myself to the question as to this limited power to remove the Secretary of War. It is declared in the resolution that under the Constitution and laws of the United States, the President has not the power to remove the Secretary of War and designate any other officer to perform the duties of that office ad interim. As to the question of power under the Constitution, I do not propose at present to enter upon its discussion. The uniform practice from the beginning of the government, as established by every President who has exercised the office; and the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States have settled the question in favor of the power of the President to remove all officers, excepting a class holding appointments of a judicial character. No practice or any decision has ever excepted a Secretary of War from this general power of the President to make removals from office. It is only necessary, then, that I should refer to the power of the Executive, under the laws of the United States, to remove from office a Secretary of War. The resolution denies that under these laws the power has any existence. It now affirms that no such authority is recognized or given by the statutes of the country. What, then, are the laws of the United States, which deny the President the power to remove that officer. I know of but two laws which bear upon the question. The first, in order of time, is the act of August 7, 1789, creating the Department of War, which after providing for a Secretary as its principal officer, proceeds as follows:

"SECTION 3 And be it further enacted, That there shall be in the said Department an inferior officer, to be appointed by the said principal officer, to be employed therein as he shall deem proper, to be called the Chief Clerk in the Department of War, and who, whenever the said principal officer shall be removed from office by the President of the United States, or in any other case of vacancy, shall, during such vacancy, have the charge and custody of all records, books and papers appertaining to the said Department."

It is clear that the act passed by Congress, many of whose members participated in the formation of the Constitution, so far from denying the power of the President to remove the Secretary of War, recognize it as existing in the Executive alone, without the concurrence of the Senate or of any other department of the Government. Furthermore, the act does not purport to confer the power by legislative authority, nor, in fact, was there any other existing legislation through which it was bestowed upon the Executive. This act is therefore complete as a recognition under the Constitution itself, for there is no other source or authority from which it could be derived. The other act, which refers to this question, and that regulating the tenure of certain civil officers, passed on the 2d day of March, 1867. The first section of the act is in the following words:

"That every person holding any civil office to which he has been appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and any person who shall hereafter be appointed to any office, and shall become duly qualified to act herein, shall be entitled to hold office until a successor shall have been, in like manner, appointed or duly qualified, except as herein otherwise provided. Provided, That the Secretaries of State, of the Treasury, of War, of the Navy, of the Interior, the Postmaster-General, and the Attorney General shall hold their offices respectively for and during the term of the President by whom they have been appointed, and for one month thereafter, subject to removal by and with the advice and consent of the Senate." The fourth section of the same act restricts the tenure of office to the limit prescribed by the law creating them. That part of the first section which precedes the proviso, declares that every person holding a civil office to which he has been or may be appointed, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall hold such office until a successor shall have been in like manner appointed. It purports to take from the Executive, during the fixed time established for the tenure of office, the independent power of removal, and to require for such removal the concurrent action of the President and the Senate. The proviso that follows proceeds to fix the term of office of the several heads of departments, whose time never had been defined before, by providing that they shall hold their offices respectively for and during the term of the President, by whom they may have been appointed, and for one month thereafter, subject to removal, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Thus, as to these enumerated officers, the proviso takes from the President the power of removal except by the advice and consent of the Senate. By its terms, however, he cannot be deprived of the power to displace them. It must appear that he himself had appointed them. It is only in that case that they have any tenure of office, or any independent right to hold, during the term of the President, and one month after the cessation of his official functions. The proviso, therefore, gives no tenure of office to any one of these officers who has been appointed by the President beyond one month after the accession of his successor.

In the case of Mr. Stanton, the only appointment under which he held the office of Secretary of War was that conferred upon him by my immediate predecessor, with the advice and consent of the Senate. He has never held from me any appointment, as the head of the War Department. Whatever right he had to hold the office was derived from that original appointment and to my own sufficiency. The law was not intended to protect such an incumbent of the War Department by taking from the President the power to remove him. This, in my judgment, is perfectly clear, and the law itself admits of no other construction. We find in all that portion of the first section which precedes the proviso, that as to the civil officers generally the President is deprived of the power of removal, and it is plain that if there had been no proviso that power would just as clearly have been taken from him, as far as it applies to the seven heads of Departments; but, for reasons, which were no doubt satisfactory to Congress, these principal officers were specially provided for, and the express and only requirement is that the President, who has appointed them, shall not, without the advice and consent of the Senate, remove them from office. But as to my Cabinet, embracing the officers designated in the first section, the act takes from me the power, without the concurrence of the Senate, to remove any one of them I have appointed; but it does not protect such of them as I did not appoint, nor give to them any tenure of office beyond my pleasure. On examination of this act, then, it shows that while in one part of the section a proviso is made for officers generally, in another clause there is a class of officers designated by their official titles, who are exempted from the general terms of the law, and in reference to whom a clear distinction is made as to the general power of removal limited in the first clause of the section. This distinction is that, as to such of these enumerated officers as hold under the appointment of the President, the power of removal can only be exercised by him with the consent of the Senate, while as to those who have not been appointed by him, there is no like denial of his power to displace them. It would be a violation of the plain meaning of this enactment to place Mr. Stanton upon this footing, as these heads of departments who have been appointed by myself. As to him, this law gives him no tenure of office. The members of my Cabinet who have been appointed by me are by this act entitled to hold for one year after the term of my office shall close, but Mr. Stanton could not, against the wishes of my successor, hold a moment thereafter. If he were permitted by that successor to hold for two weeks, would that successor have no power to remove him? But the power of my successor over him would be no greater than my own. If my successor would have the power to remove Mr. Stanton, after permitting him to remain a period of two weeks, because he was not appointed by him, but by his predecessor, I, who have tolerated Mr. Stanton for more than two years, certainly have the same right to remove him upon the same ground, namely: that he was not appointed by me, but by my predecessor. Under the construction of the tenure of office act, I have never doubted my power to remove him, whether the act was constitutional or not. It was always my opinion that it did not secure him from removal. I was aware, however, that there were doubts as to the construction of the law from the first. I deemed it desirable that at the earliest possible moment these doubts should be settled, and the true construction of the act fixed by decision of the Supreme Court of the United States. My order of suspension in August last was intended to place the case in such a position as would make a resort to judicial decision both necessary and proper. My understanding and wishes, however, under that order of suspension, were frustrated, and the late order for Mr. Stanton's removal was a further step toward the accomplishment of that purpose. I repeat that my conviction, as to the true construction of the law, and as to the constitutionality, were settled, and were sustained, by every member of my Cabinet, including Mr. Stanton himself. Upon the question of constitutionality, each one, in turn, deliberately advised me that the tenure-of-office bill was unconstitutional upon the question. Whether, as to those members who were appointed by my predecessor, that act took from me the power to remove them, one member declared emphatically, in the presence of others sitting in Cabinet, that they did not come within the provisions of the act, and it was no protection to them. I understood them all to acquiesce in its correctness. In a matter of such grave importance, I was not disposed to rest upon my own opinion, though fortified by my constitutional advisers. I have, therefore, sought to bring the question at as early a day as possible before the Supreme Court of the United States for trial and authoritative discussion. In respect to so much of the resolution as relates to the designation of an officer to act as Secretary of War ad interim, I have only to say I have exercised this power under the provisions of the first section of the act of February 13, 1795, which, so far as they are applicable to the vacancies caused by removals, I understand to be still in force. The legislation upon the subject of ad interim appointments in the Executive Departments stands as to the War Office, as follows: The section of the act of the 9th of August, 1789, made no provision for a vacancy in the very case of a removal of the head of the War Department, and upon such a vacancy gives the charge and custody of the records, books and papers to the Chief Clerk. Next, by the act of the 8th of March, 1792, section 8, it is provided that in case a vacancy is occasioned, by death or absence from the seat of Government, or of sickness of the head of the War Department, the President may authorize a person to perform the duties of the office until a successor is appointed, or the disability is removed. The act, it will be observed, does not provide for the case of a vacancy caused by removal. Then, by the first section of the act of February 13, 1795, it is provided that in case of any vacancy the President may appoint a person to perform the duties while the vacancy exists. These acts are followed by that of the 20th of February, 1863, by the first section of which provision is again made for the vacancy caused by death, resignation, absence from the seat of government or sickness of the head of any department, and upon the occurrence of such a vacancy power is given to the President to authorise the head of any other Executive Department, or other officer in either of said departments, whose appointment is vested in the President, at his discretion, to perform the duties of the respective officer until a successor be appointed, or such absence or inability by sickness shall cease, provided that no one vacancy shall be supplied in the manner aforesaid for a longer period than six months. This law, with some modifications, enacts the act of 1797, and provides, as did that act, for the sort of vacancies to be filled, but, like the act of 1792, it makes no provision for a vacancy caused by removal. It has reference altogether to vacancies arising from other causes. According to my construction of the act of 1863, while it implicitly repeals the act of 1792 regulating the vacancies therein described, it has no bearing whatever on so much of the act of 1792 as applies to vacancy caused by removal. The act of 1795, therefore, furnished the rule for a vacancy occasioned by removal. One of the vacancies is expressly referred to in the act of the 7th of August, 1789, creating the Department of War. Certainly there is no express repeal by the act of 1863 of the act of 1795. The repeal, if there is any, is by implication, and can only be admitted so far as there is a clear inconsistency between the two acts. The act of 1795 is inconsistent with that of 1863 as to a vacancy occasioned by death, resignation, absence or sickness, but not at all inconsistent as to a vacancy caused by removal; it is assuredly proper that the President should have the same power to fill temporarily a vacancy occasioned by removal he has to supply a place made vacant by death or the expiration of a term. If, for instance, the incumbent of an office should be found unfit to execute the functions, and the public should require his immediate expulsion, a remedy should exist and be at once applied, and time be allowed the President to select a successor, as is permitted him in case of a vacancy caused by death or the termination of an official term; the necessity, therefore, for an ad interim appointment is just as great, and indeed, may be greater, in case of removal than in others before it. It was held, therefore, that the powers given by the act of 1785, in cases of removal, is abrogated by succeeding legislation. An express repeal ought to appear. So wholesome a power should certainly not be taken away by loose implication. It may be, however, that in this, as in other cases of implied repeal, doubts may arise. It is confessedly one of the subtle and debatable questions which arise in the reconstruction of States. If, upon such a question, I have fallen into an erroneous construction, I submit whether it should be characterized a violation of official duty and of law. I have deemed it proper in vindication of the course which I have considered it my duty to take, to place before the Senate the opinions upon which I have based my action, although I have been advised by every member of my Cabinet that the entire tenure of office act is unconstitutional, and therefore void, and, although I have expressly concurred in that opinion in the veto message which I had hoped to submit to Congress when I returned the bill for their consideration, I have refrained from a removal of any officer, contrary to the provisions of the law, and have only exercised that power in the case of Mr. Stanton, which, in my judgment, did not come within its provisions. I have endeavored to proceed with circumspection, and have acted only in an extreme and exceptional case. I will carefully follow the course I have marked out for myself, and a general rule faithfully to execute all laws, though passed over my objection in the present instance. I have appealed, or sought to appeal, to that final arbiter fixed by the Constitution for the determination of all such questions. To this course I have been impelled by the solemn obligation which rests upon me to sustain, inviolate, the power of the high office committed to my hands. Whatever the consequences, if merely personal to myself, I could not allow them to prevail against a public duty so clear to my own mind, and so imperative. If what is possible had been certain, if I had been fully advised when I removed Mr. Stanton that, in thus defending the trust committed to my hands, my own removal was sure to follow, public consideration of the highest character would have induced me to act as I have. I earnestly protest against the resolution of the Senate which charges me, in what I have done, with a violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States.

[Signed] ANDREW JOHNSON,

—In a country where the natural desire of the people is to reach the highest point in art, it is very difficult for success to be obtained without most arduous labor. Public opinion is extremely exacting and not always just; but often unjust and cruel criticism has produced the most beneficial results; the greatest improvements have been made under continued discouragements, and in many successful efforts defeat seemed certain to all except those concerned. In no one branch of art has there been more trials and failures, and in no single instrument is there so many different parts to perfect in order to make the whole a success, as the pianoforte; this is always attended with great expense, requiring large capital and patient perseverance. Grovesteen & Co., 499 Broadway, N. Y., commenced manufacturing pianos thirty-six years ago, and are one of the oldest houses in the country. They aim to make the best instrument, and sell it at the smallest profit. These pianos cannot be excelled. Their singing quality is pure, full, and easily retained through the most lengthy passages. For power they are unparalleled, and are celebrated for their great brilliancy, exquisite touch, and elegance of style and finish.

An Unusual Good Opportunity.

SOME enterprising man with a snug $2,000, city or suburban home, and a few hundred dollars cash or good credit, can get a business that will pay largely and rapidly—a monopoly at handsome profits, by early application to

PATENT MEDICINES.

MRS. JACKSON'S

Queen Bess Complexion Wash.

THE following certificates, selected from hundreds in the possession of the proprietress, are confidently submitted to the public:

MRS. WOLCOTT'S CERTIFICATE.

QUINCY, Ill., November 5, 1866.

MRS. JACKSON, Dear Madam—It is with pleasure that I certify to you, that seeing one of your circulars, which contained certificates and indorsements from the best physicians and the highest medical authorities of the United States, certifying that your oils for the complexion and teeth were purely the oils, extracts and essences of flowers, and they warrant it when used according to directions to cure the worst and most difficult cases of nursing, sore mouth, canker of the stomach, bowels and dyspepsia. For scrofulous disorders, when used both internally and externally, it has no equal. Dear Madam, seeing this, and my little daughter, aged fifteen months, having the whooping cough for several months, accompanied with what the doctors call white canker, her mouth and throat being terribly ulcerated, and I having tried everything for its relief I could hear of, all to no purpose, I bought one bottle of your oil for the complexion, called "Queen Bess," went according to the directions, did not use quite one bottle, and I am most happy to state to you that it has cured my child. She is now as well and hearty as ever she was in her life. I give you this, my certificate, hoping you will publish it, that thousands of others who may be afflicted with any of the above affections may at once get a bottle of your "Queen Bess," for I feel sure they will find immediate relief.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. GEO. WOLCOTT,
Jersey street, bet. Sixth and Seventh.

MRS. WM. R. COLLINS' CERTIFICATE.

HANNIBAL, Mo, August 22, 1866.

MRS. JACKSON, Dear Madam—I am most happy to inform you that after having suffered more than three years with what some physicians call nursing sore mouth, or canker of the mouth and throat, I tried various remedies, but found nothing to do me any good until I heard of your oils for the complexion and teeth, called "Queen Bess." I bought one bottle, went according to directions, and am truly thankful to say I have found a permanent cure. Hoping you will publish this, that other poor sufferers may be benefitted by it, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
MRS. WM. R. COLLINS.

$34,500 IN PREMIUMS.

NUMBER of PRIZES, 25.

CERTIFICATES, $5 EACH.

A Fortune or a Homestead for $5.

CAPITAL PRIZE VALUED AT $20,000 00

Which amount has recently been offered for the Springs and Grounds immediately surrounding.

PRIZE NO. 1.

The celebrated Raleigh Mineral Springs, situated on the confines of Raleigh, late County Seat of Shelby county, Tenn., nine miles northeast of Memphis, and two miles from Wells' Station, on the Memphis and Louisville Railroad. These Springs are six and number, of various mineral and medicinal qualities, and are visited every Summer by thousands of seekers of health and pleasure, from all quarters of the country. They are within a few steps of the village of Raleigh, in a beautiful valley, and also within a few hundred feet of Wolf river, which winds around the base of the eminence on which the village of Raleigh is situated, and empties into the "Father of Waters" at Memphis. Numerous remarkable cures of various diseases have been experienced by sojourners at this health-inspiring retreat, and the present proprietor, Col. J. M. Coleman, can produce hundreds of certificates of cures in cases which had been entirely given over by medical skill. The ground surrounding the Springs, and in fact the entire village of Raleigh, rises to an eminence of pure air, and is as remarkable for its healthfulness as beauty of location. The Springs are in fine order, never failing, and are designated as follows:

MARBLE SPRING,
BOX SPRING,
MAGNOLIA SPRING,
ARSENIC SPRING,
SULPHUR SPRING,
FREESTONE SPRING.

The place has never been visited by epidemic of any kind, and peculiarly characteristic of its healthfulness is the longevity of the inhabitants. The oldest citizens of Shelby county are residents of Raleigh.

The Springs are as much resorted to by pleasure seekers as by invalids, owing to beauty of scenery and various artificial as well as natural attractions. Connected with the Springs are a Pavilion, Ladies' Bowling Alley, Rustic Arbors, Reading Saloon, Gents' Bowling Alley, Saloon, Billiard Room, Gymnasium, Refreshment Tables, etc., while Wolf river affords excellent Boating and Fishing.

The ground accompanying the Springs, in the above scheme and included in the First Prize, is fifteen acres in extent, overlooking the valley and affords, in addition to a magnificent site for a grand hotel and other buildings; splendid facilities for a park, promenades, etc.

An analysis of the several Springs, by distinguished medical men, shows that they are unsurpassed in mineral and curative properties by any in the United States. There is no reason then why Raleigh should not become as famous as Saratoga, Sharon or Lebanon, and as largely patronized. It needs only capital and enterprise to accomplish this end.

A charter is before the State Legislature for the incorporation of the Springs, and a movement has been inaugurated looking to direct rail communication with Memphis.

For this prize, $20,000 was recently offered, which was declined in order that the above scheme may be fully carried out.

The elegant country mansion house and lot residence of Col. J. M. Coleman is within a few yards of the Springs. The house is in first class order, contains 10 rooms and is beautifully embowered in shrubbery. The lot is well fenced and ornamented with fine shade and fruit trees, and affords all necessary outhouses, cisterns, etc. It is midway between the village and Spring Valley, on the main promenade. Value $5000.

PRIZE NO. 3.

One thousand dollars in cash.

PRIZE NO. 4 TO 25.

Twenty-two cottage lots valued at $250 each. These lots are a portion of the village of Raleigh, delightfully situated, all fronting on thoroughfares and will be drawn with the understanding that the winners shall have free access at all times to the Springs and belongings.

Details of the Drawing.

Six thousand and seven hundred tickets, representing the certificates issued, will be placed in one wheel, and the same number of blanks, including twenty-five inscribed with the names of the premiums, will be placed in another. From these wheels tickets will be drawn at the same time, and the number drawn will take the premium drawn simultaneously.

All moneys received upon the sale of these shares will be placed in the German National Bank of Memphis, and will remain there to the credit of the Association until the drawing takes place.

POPULAR WORKS ON FREEMASONRY

PUBLISHED BY THE

MASONIC PUBLISHING

—AND—

MANUFACTURING COMPANY,

432 Broome Street, New York.

LITURGY OF THE ANCIENT AND ACcepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States. By Albert Pike, 33d, Sov. Grand Commander. 8vo. Splendidly illustrated with Chromo-lithographic plates and numerous wood engravings, Part II, 4th to 14th degree, $5 00.

⁂ It would perhaps seem unnecessary after giving the above title-page to say anything further in the way of recommendation. The name of the author should of itself be a sufficient guarantee of its worth. Ill. Bro. Pike, by his learning and contributions has done as much to elevate the standard of Masonic literature and extend a knowledge of its symbolism, ethics and history as any other living man. This book, in its particular department, may justly be considered a master-piece, embracing matter not only useful to the Masonic student of every grade, but to men of science in the highest literary field of the present age. Notwithstanding this book has been preceded by several of a similar character, yet to Bro. Pike alone is due the honor of first exploring this branch of Masonic literature and of opening to the admiration of the Craft its vast storehouse of knowledge and beauty. This work contains the degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Rite from the fourth to the fourteenth inclusive, is elegantly illustrated with chromo-lithograph engravings, showing all the jewels, costume, furniture, etc., belonging to each degree. No expense has been spared in getting it up, and it is without doubt the most elegant, as well as one of the most useful books, ever offered to the Fraternity.

Published and for sale by the Masonic Publishing and Manufacturing Company, 432 Broome street, New York, and Booksellers generally in the United States.

Copies of the above for the Memphis Brethren are ready for delivery at the Editorial Rooms of the APPEAL, 14 Jefferson street, upstairs. 1w jan29

FASSMAN'S IRON TIES

— FOR —

COTTON BALES.

THE undersigned have made extensive arrangements to supply the demand for these Ties the present season.

In addition to the FASSMAN DIAMOND TIE and BUTTON TIE, so extensively used heretofore, they now offer his ALLIGATOR TIE, with teeth so arranged as to instantly clamp the hoop when the pressure is removed from the bale, and hold it without slipping.

Great pains have been taken to secure the best quality of iron.

These Ties are so simple in their arrangement that they can be applied by any one, to bales of any size, with the same facility and expedition as rope. In strength, security and facility of application, they will compare favorably with any yet introduced.

The advantages of Iron Ties are now generally recognized; but it is deemed not out of place to call the attention of those interested to the very emphatic recommendation of Underwriters, Steamboat Captains, and Owners and Agents of Sea Steamers and Sailing Vessels, recently published in the newspapers in New Orleans.

THE interest of Gen. ALBERT PIKE in the APPEAL having become complete at the expiration of his year's engagement as Editor in Chief, the proprietors will hereafter be known as ALBERT PIKE & Co. JOHN S. C. HOGAN.

EN PERMANENCE.

As the Editor in Chief of this journal entertained, some months ago, a vague purpose of engaging in journalism in Louisville, and was really undetermined as to remaining permanently in Memphis, and as this has very naturally given reason for suppositions that he might at any time withdraw from the charge of the APPEAL, it will perhaps not be deemed improper for him now to say that he has irrevocably determined to remain permanently in Memphis; and that, having earned an equal interest in the APPEAL, he proposes to be its Editor in Chief during the years that may remain to him in which to labour.

Will it be egotistic in us to say, that we have been in large measure moved to this determination by the fond and perhaps not well-founded belief that our opinions have had some weight with the people whom the APPEAL reaches, and that we have done and may do good, by aiding other journals in elevating the tone of political discussion, avoiding personalities, and repeating to the people the lessons of the wise and the good of all ages?

We would fain do some good in our day and generation. We would fain serve the people, our client, to whom we at least honestly endeavour to be loyal. So we hope to be able to atone for the many errors and short-comings of a chequered life.

It has been well and eloquently said, "if we follow duty because it brings us gold and peace and man's applause, where is there effort in the choice of it? It is only when it is hard, that there can be any loyalty in its acceptance."

"To enjoy is much; but to seek truth and labour for freedom is more. Happiness dies as age comes to us; it sets forever with the suns of early years: yet perhaps we may keep a higher thing, beside which it holds but a brief royalty, if to ourselves we can rest true, if for the liberty of the world we can do any thing."

This is the measure and the scope of our ambition.

NAMES.

"A rose by any other name would smell as sweet," it is said; but nevertheless names come, sometimes, to have a singular potency, and that by which a party is to be known, is never a matter of indifference. Some have an extraordinary prestige, and are invested, as it were, with a halo of glory: others become almost designations of infamy. For many years, especially in the South, the name of 'Federalist' was a term of reproach; and to be accused of being one was almost to be charged as guilty of a crime. Thus old party names become idolized by one party and detested by the other, even after the questions on which these parties divided have become obsolete, and only the cold ashes of their once fiery differences remain.

We have said that we prefer as a name for the party of the Constitution and the Union and a government of white men only, the word "Conservative" to the word "Democratic." There is a name that we should prefer to either. The anti-Federal party, of which JEFFERSON and MADISON were leaders, was not styled 'Democratic,' but 'Republican.' We should prefer to return to that name, because the Government created by the Constitution of the United States is not a Democracy, but a Constitutional Republic, in which there were intended to the States were to possess great powers as equals, without reference to mere numbers. We should prefer the name "CONSTITUTIONAL REPUBLICAN PARTY." And we should the more prefer this, because it is one that the Old Line Whig, the Conservative Union man and the Democrat could accept with equal willingness; and in accepting which no one would even seem to abandon any principle; and the Party wearing that name would really be a Union of men of all parties to save the country, and not a surrender of any to the Democratic party.

But we are wedded to no name, and have no prejudice against that of Democrat. We could not well have, after voting for Mr. BRECKINRIDGE in 1860, because he stood, as we conceived, upon the only frank and manly Southern Platform of State-rights. We were a Know-Nothing, or of the American Party, because we hoped and believed that that movement would kill off Abolition agitation; and we left the party when it changed its platform at the mandate of anti-slavery members.

There is now no national party that is organized or organizing, in the Northern States, against Radicalism, except the Democratic party. Unfortunately, in those States, too many of the old Whig leaders became Republicans when the Missouri Compromise was repealed; and have since degenerated into Radicals. There is no hope of the revival of that party, to which we belonged so many years. We are willing, therefore, to accept the name of Democrat. When Jacobinism shall have been strangled, and the country is rescued from its poisonous fangs, any differences of opinion as to measures or principles can be settled, that may exist between different portions of the party that will have saved the country. Until then, they can wait, for they are of insignificant importance, in comparison with the great issues on which the very life of the nation depends.

Accepting the name of Democrat, we are also willing to accept ANDREW JOHNSON as the Candidate of the Democratic party for the Presidency; and that the more especially, if he shall be impeached and cast out of office for his fidelity to the Constitution. For then the people will owe it to themselves, more than to him, to overwhelm the plotters against Constitutional liberty by that which will be the most crushing defeat and bitterest vengeance, the reinstatement in the Presidential chair of the especial representative of that liberty, who will have been struck down because, trusting in the sober judgment and the justice of the people, he defended it at all hazards.

We are for ANDREW JOHNSON as President, subject to the decision of the National Democratic Conservative Convention. We are for the man whom the Radicals will most hate to see elected, and whom they have so savagely endeavoured to dishonour and humiliate.

A PATRIOT PRESIDENT.

[The article which follows, was written three weeks ago, but being overlooked, was not published during the Editor's absence. Since it was written, nothing has occurred to change our estimate of the President, except for the better; and we therefore publish it now, without alteration.

Events succeed each other with unnatural rapidity, in revolutionary times; and the controversy between the President and Congress, in which the latter audaciously seeks to deprive the former of his constitutional powers, and to make his office one which no man could hold without parting with his self-respect, has apparently culminated in an issue on which one or the other must go down. The President has, with singular prudence and sagacity, made that issue upon a point on which the sympathies and respect of the people must be with him. He has not endeavoured to impede the operation of the Reconstruction Acts, but has allowed them to become as odious as possible, by the investiture of a brutal mass of ignorant negroes with all political power in the Southern Provinces. He has not sought to control Gen. GRANT: but he has compelled Congress to assume the perilous position of endeavouring to compel him to retain as Secretary of War a man who had not respect enough for himself to resign when his Chief desired his resignation, an open enemy, less dangerous now than when he was a concealed one. This is a side-issue, immaterial as to its effects upon the work of reconstruction; and one on which it must be admitted by all generous and honourable men, the President is in the right. It is a question that possesses an interest, not for to-day only, or for the men of to-day, but for all the future life of the Republic, and for those who are to come after us. Every one who is not so controlled by party prejudice as to be incapable of judging justly and impartially, must admit, that it is a low, base and unmanly act to force upon the President as his adviser and minister a man who has become both detestable and despicable to him, and whose action in clinging to his office was denounced in advance by his own party friends and the President's enemies, as one that would be unworthy of a gentleman. And, moreover, the dullest man among the people must see and comprehend that if Congress can force a Secretary of War on the President, and make that Secretary and the General of the Armies independent of him, so that they can with impunity disobey and defy him, they usurp the place of the President, and he ceases to be the Commander-in-Chief of the Armies, or the President of the United States. It is a virtual suspension from office. On this issue the President ought to win; and we believe that he will be sustained by the Supreme Court.

As to General GRANT, the President has also, with singular wisdom, waited patiently until that unfortunate officer came into direct collision with him on a question of veracity, and upon that issue proving the truth of his own statements, and the untruth of those of the General, has also provoked him to boast that he accepted the office of Secretary of War in order disloyally to thwart the President; and has mercilessly criticized this desperate and extraordinary avowal, in words calm and cold, but terrible, when spoken of a soldier by his commander. Whatever may be the fate of ANDREW JOHNSON, he has proven himself a great man.]

"A patriot President is the guardian, the protector, the friend of every citizen of the United States. He should be, and he is, no man's persecutor, no man's enemy, but the supporter and the protector of all and every citizen, so far as such support and protection depend on his faithful execution of the laws. But there is especially one great idea which Washington presents, and which governed him, and which should govern every man high in office, who means to resemble Washington; and that is, the duty of preserving the government itself; of suffering, so far as depends on him, no one branch to interfere with another; no power to be assumed by any department which does not belong to it, and none to be abandoned which does belong to it; but to preserve it, and carry it on unharmed for the benefit of the present and future generations. . . . A patriot President, acting from the impulses of this high and honorable purpose, may reach what Washington reached. He may contribute to raise high the public prosperity, to help to fill up the measure of his country's glory and renown. He may be able to find a rich reward in the thankfulness of the people.

And read his history in a Nation's eyes.'"

[Daniel Webster.

We are conscious, now, that we have sometimes done injustice to ANDREW JOHNSON, the Patriot President of the United States,—unjust in our honest convictions as to his conduct, and therefore unjust in what we have sometimes written,—more unjust even, in our thoughts than their expression.

The Philadelphia Press says:

It is evident, from the tone of the debates in the House during the past few weeks, that the day is fast approaching when Gov. Boutwell's prophecy that the Republicans who voted against impeachment on the grounds of expediency or otherwise, would repent of the act, will be fulfilled; and we do not hesitate to say that if the impeachment movement could be revived, even on the charges which were rejected by the House, it would succeed with but little, if any, opposition to it from the Republican members.

What this means, is quite plain. The President is gaining strength, and beironical message to Congress, commending General HANCOCK, was meant as a defiance, to provoke that body to more violent and extreme measures, and hasten the coming of the day of doom for the party of destruction.

We can now see that Mr. JOHNSON has perhaps been wiser than we and others who at times censured him for not moving more rapidly in the work of reconciliation, and resisting more strenuously the unconstitutional enactments of Congress, and its invasions of his prerogatives. We now think that it was wise on his part to wait. Until recently, the vast majority of the Northern people was bitterly against him and in favor of the usurpations of Congress. He could not rely on half a dozen men, of all who surrounded him. A spy in the War-Office plotted against him; the General of the Armies addressed to him chiding letters, the intentional disrespect of which he was at little pains to conceal.

The country ought to thank the President for having let Jacobinism have its way and run its course, and even for the speeches, deemed undignified at the time, by which he lashed the leaders into an insane rage that robbed them of reason and drove them into greater excesses. They endeavoured to crush him; but they failed. They were willing to let the House and Senate be disgraced by assertions broadly made that the President was an accomplice in the murder of his predecessor; and it is not to be doubted that many of them would gladly have seen the populace, roused and fired by these brutal accusations, massacre the President on the steps of the Capitol. A Congressional Committee crawled so low down into the slimy pits of infamy, as to inquire into the state of his bank account, as though they suspected him of robbing the Treasury of the nation or receiving bribes. He was over and over again denounced in each House as a traitor. It was attempted to impeach him, not for any known offence defined by law, but on paltry charges that covered their authors with ignominy. He was libelled by the whole Jacobin press as a habitual and grovelling drunkard. No official act of his escaped inquisitorial investigation, preceded by unmeasured censure.

No public man in this country has ever borne "the pitiless peltings" of so fierce a storm of hatred, detraction and intimidation. He has not shrunk from it. He has faced it nobly; and he has also courageously resisted those of his friends who would have had him make a more vigorous opposition, give back blow for blow, and defy Congress by exerting to the utmost his power of pardoning.

Of course he has at times made mistakes. To say that he has not, would be to say that he is mere than human. But that his course has in the main been eminently wise, is demonstrated by the increased bitterness of Jacobinism against him, and by the daily increasing favour with which the people are coming to regard him. The apostates from the cause of constitutional liberty hate him as SATAN hated the Seraph ABDIEL, when

> "A noble stroke he lifted high,
> Which hung not, but so swift with tempest fell,
> On the proud crest of Satan, that no sight
> Nor motion of swift thought, less could his shield,
> Such ruin intercept."

Even so, again and again, the President has smitten with his vetoes and the two-handed, double-edged sword of Truth and Logic the Congressional Anarchs, and made them reel and stagger under his blows.

Notwithstanding the favour with which the name of Mr. PENDLETON has been received in some quarters, we shall now not be surprised if ANDREW JOHNSON were to be the Democratic nominee for the Presidency. The people of the United States, like the English, admire and like pluck, and of that it is now known by all men that ANDREW JOHNSON has enough. If those who think he ought to have done more, had had the same ample information that he had, they would perhaps wonder that he has been able to do so much. The General who, overlooking the field, sees how the tide of battle ebbs and flows, sees the combinations of the enemy developed, knows where his own line is strong and where weak, and takes in with practised coup d'œil all the details and all the movements of the action, can judge somewhat better how daring or how prudent he ought to be, than a private or a subaltern.

ANDREW JOHNSON has proven himself a great and wise man; a Patriot President.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE APPEAL.

WILLARD'S HOTEL,
LOUISVILLE, KY., February 23, 1868.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

I left Memphis via Memphis and Ohio Railway on Friday at 3:30 p.m., and reached this city about the same hour the following day. It was my first trip over the Memphis and Ohio and connecting roads, and it was one of more than ordinary pleasure. The weather was delightful, the scenery along the route varied and interesting, and the railroad accommodations unsurpassed. Indeed, from all that I had heard about the difficulties the line had had to contend with, I expected to find poor accommodations and broken connections and delays without number, and even the day before I left Memphis a friend kindly suggested to me that I had better try some other route, as the connections were uncertain, and I might be detained a week on the road. Informing myself, however, as to the correctness of the rumor on which the advice was given, I concluded to take the chances. The result is, I found elegant cars, smooth roads, obliging officers, and good fare at the eating houses. I landed in Louisville in the same car in which I took my seat at the depot in Memphis, and met with no detentions anywhere. Mr. Fink, the General Superintendent of the line, came through by the same train, and I noticed that he was out making inspections at every stopping place. Col. Sam. Jones and Gen. Boyd came out with us a few miles, but returned on the inward bound train. These gentlemen, with Gen. West, Col. Livermore, Capt. Ross and other prominent railroad officers, have lately held a two days' session in Memphis, and the result of their deliberations will redound to the comfort and interest of the traveling public, as well as the railroads they represented.

Memphis has cause to be proud of her railroads and their different feeders, and none of them more than the line over which I have just travelled for the first time.

A friend from Memphis (Capt. Ward) left your city at 7:20 Saturday morning, and knocked at my door this morning before I awoke. He is as familiarly impressed with the line as I am. My only regret is that a certain event which is being looked for in the neighborhood of my home next week, forbids my taking more time to make a leisure trip, for I would like much to stop at Russellville, Mumfordsville, Bowling Green, and other points of historical interest.

On reaching here yesterday, I found the city full of rumors and excitement; and though the rumors have assumed shape, the excitement has abated very little. Everybody seems to be on the qui vive for the next movement at Washington, and not a few anticipate a dark day in the history of the country. A few days, or at most weeks, will decide the course things are to take; and instead of speculating or hazarding an opinion, I prefer to fall back upon the old Tom. Ritchie motto, "nous verrons."

Louisville seems to be busy, but already I hear a good deal about "lame ducks," and some of them incurable. Of business affairs, however, I shall be able to say more in a future letter.

The amusements here are not equal to those now in Memphis. Forrest is to commence an engagement to-morrow night, but I have no idea the "Black Crook" will be equalled by a jug full. The fact is, I do not think you Memphians appreciate the public spirit and energy of Mr. Manager Thompson. He has prepared a display for you that excels in magnificence anything ever heretofore offered, and yet unfounded prejudices deter a great many from going to witness the performance of the "Black Crook," for fear of a shock to their ideas of decency. There never was a greater error, nor a more unfounded prejudice; and I saw at the New Memphis Theater many of the most refined and elegant ladies of Memphis, and all that I spoke to expressed themselves in superlative terms of praise. Mr. Thompson merits a rich reward for his heavy outlay and his successful efforts to present rich and grand scenes and scenery, the magnificence of which I have never seen equalled in New York, and any one portion of which is worth more than the cost of a ticket.

I shall look around here a day or two, and will write again.

[Special Dispatch to Memphis Appeal.]

JACKSON, MISS., February 25.—The Convention is still engaged on the Bill of Rights.

The Committee on Merriman's case made a report of the facts without recommendations. The affair has the appearance of a drunken vagary. Motions were made to expel, and to suspend for twenty-five and for ten days, severally, which were voted down.

Gen. Gillem has appointed E. G. Peyton, Thos. Shackelford and E. Jeffords to be Judges of the High Court of Errors and Appeals, for the State of Mississippi, to fill existing vacancies.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, February 24.—After the passage of the impeachment resolution, Stevens offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That a committee of two be appointed to go to the bar of the Senate and in the name of the House of Representatives and all the people of the United States, impeach Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, of "high crime and misdemeanor in office," and acquaint the Senate that the House of Representatives will, in due time, exhibit particular articles of impeachment against him, and make good the same, and that the Committee do now demand that the Senate make an order for the appearance of said Andrew Johnson to answer said impeachment.

Resolved, That a committee of seven be appointed to prepare and report articles of impeachment against the President of the United States, with power to send for persons, papers, and records, and to take testimony under oath.

The Democratic members attempted to resort to fillibustering, but were cut off after an ineffectual effort, by a motion to suspend the rules so as to bring the House to an immediate vote on the resolution. The rules were suspended, and the resolution adopted by yeas 126, nays —. The Speaker then appointed the two committees as follows: To announce to the Senate the action of the House, Stevens, of Pennsylvania, and Bingham, of Ohio. To prepare articles of impeachment, Messrs. Boutwell, of Massachusetts, Stevens, of Pennsylvania, Bingham, of Ohio, Wilson, of Iowa, Logan, of Illinois, Julian, of Indiana, and Ward, of New York.

The House, then, at twenty minutes to six o'clock, adjourned.

LOUISVILLE, February 25.—The Courier's special says: There has been another day of fervid excitement in the Capital, which has been heightened by telegrams stating that the Pennsylvania troops were tendering their aid to Congress, and on the other hand that bodies of men were organizing in New York, Baltimore and other places with a view of sustaining the President. These reports, together with the events of the day, caused unparalleled consternation. The first point of attraction this morning, and which gathered crowds, was the War Office, where Stanton has been sleeping, eating and drinking since Friday. He breakfasted there this morning with Representatives Logan and Schoolfield, and it is understood that his friends so advised him, and he was determined to resist with force any attempt to eject him.

About 1 o'clock to-day Gen. Thomas had an interview with the President and Attorney-General Stanbery, when the position was discussed and action agreed on. The President again explained that his purpose was to secure a judicial decision of the tenure of office bill, and rid himself of that nuisance Stanton, and he wished to accomplish it only by a legal proceeding, and under no circumstances would he allow force to be used. He claimed his right to have the law tested, and said he would not be driven from his position by the contumacy of Stanton or the threats of Congress. It was then agreed that Thomas should again demand of Stanton the custody of the books and mails of the War Office, and if he refused, then the Attorney-General should sue out a writ of quo warranto, to ascertain by what authority Stanton kept possession of the public archives. Gen. Thomas then proceeded to the War Office and made the demand, saying it "was by the order of the President."

Stanton replied, "I do not acknowledge such authority; I do not recognize the authority of the President to issue such an order, and I refuse to surrender the War Office, the building, or the mails, records, etc., belonging to the department."

After some further words Thomas retired and returned to the President and advised him of Stanton's action.

Mr. Stanbery left at once to prepare an application for the mandamus, and this will be before the Supreme Court of the District to-morrow.

"To the Capitol," then was the cry, and the crowd which had hung around the War Office rushed down the avenue, where they were joined by large numbers, and by the hour of meeting the Hall of the House was filled to overflowing.

"Impeacher Ashley" led off in the impeachment ball, made mouths and cut dramatic antics for half an hour, to the disgust even of his Radical friends. Messrs. Wood, Washburne, Woodward, Carey, and many others, also made speeches. That of Washburne was thought significant, as he professes to be Grant's mouthpiece. He denounced the President in such unreasonable terms, that Judge Woodward was constrained to pronounce it a foul slander on the President. The conduct of the impeachers throughout the discussion, was a disgrace to the American Congress. There was an absence of order, a lack of decorum, a body shocking to behold; and it was only when the vote was about to be taken, that the members comprehended the solemnity of the occasion. During the voting, perfect order was maintained on the floor, and not a whisper was heard in the galleries. Col. Carey, of Ohio, and Stewart, of New York, voted with the Democrats.

Speaker Colfax announced that on such an occasion, he felt it his duty to be on the record, and he voted aye.

A committee was then appointed to draw up the articles of impeachment.

The resolution under which they are to act allows the charges to be enlarged, so there will be a drag and rake up of everything possible against the President. The Committee has power to send for persons and papers, and it will be several days before the articles of impeachment will be ready.

To-morrow Stevens and Boutwell, who have been delegated for that purpose, will advise the Senate that the House has impeached the President, and that they will appear in due time before the bar of the Senate and make said charges good.

Stevens, Boutwell, Ashley and Logan are particularly jubilant over the result. What next? is now the question, and one not easily answered, as there are Radical Senators who despise the whole proceeding, and one of that body declares that the Senate will never disgrace itself as the House has done, by its hasty and silly action. It is the opinion of this and other Senators that the Senate will not convict the President, who in the meanwhile declares that he puts his faith in God and the American people.

Secretary McCulloch declines to recognize Stanton as Secretary of War.

The report that the President sent for Gen. Emery, and that during the interview Gen. Emery informed the President that he would obey no order unless it come through Gen. Grant, is denied by Gen. Emery.

The military will not be allowed to escort the remains of Maj. Kelly to the grave to-day, the authorities fearing that the appearance of the military in the streets would excite the populace.

Gen. Grant said to Senator Wilson today that the army officers were a unit in support of Congress, and that there were not a dozen out of twenty-five hundred who would obey the President's order, unless sent through him. Grant also said of Gen. George H. Thomas' declining the Brevet Lieut.-Generalcy: "Its just what I expected of Thomas, He is a good soldier."

It is understood that the present Cabinet would promptly resign if the Senate sustained the impeachment, but it is hoped by the friends of the administration that the Supreme Court will decide the tenure-of-office bill unconstitutional, and thus determine the case.

WASHINGTON, February 25.—The excitement here, relative to the impeachment question and matters incidental thereto, was very sensibly diminished this morning.

At the War Office and Grant's headquarters nothing of particular interest was transacted, the routine of business being attended to as usual.

Gen. Thomas made no demand this morning for the records of the War Department, but merely called at the Adjutant General's office and after receiving his private mails repaired home. He had a short interview with the President during the forenoon. Secretary Stanton was busily engaged during the morning signing requisitions and attending to other business of a public character, which has accumulated to a considerable extent within the past few days. Several visitors called upon Stanton during the forenoon, among whom were Senators Cameron and Edmonds.

Considerable interest is manifested in the result of Gen. Thomas' examination before the Supreme Court of this District to-morrow, and various speculations are

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, February 25.—Chandler presented a communication from the Governor of Michigan, urging impeachment, which was only partly read, the Senate refusing to receive the balance.

The bill for a proper settlement of public accounts was passed.

At a quarter past one Stevens and Bingham appeared at the door, accompanied by a number of members to witness the proceeding on the subject they had in charge.

The Doorkeeper announced "A Committee from the House of Representatives," who were recognized by the presiding officer.

Stevens then said: "In obedience to an order of the House of Representatives, we appear before you. In the name of the House of Representatives and of all the people of the United States, we do impeach Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, 'of high crimes and misdemeanors,' and we further inform the Senate that the House of Representatives will, in due time, exhibit articles of impeachment against him, and make good the same; and we demand that the Senate take order for the appearance of Andrew Johnson, to answer said impeachment."

Wade, the presiding officer, replied that the Senate would take action in the premises.

Howard offered the following:

Resolved, That the message from the House of Representatives relating to the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, be referred to a select committee of seven, to consider and report upon the same.

Bayard said the Senate had no constitutional jurisdiction to appoint a select committee for this case, and contended that it could only resolve itself into a High Court of Impeachment with the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court presiding, and it had no right, he maintained, to anticipate the trial of a case of impeachment by reporting a message from the House.

The resolution was put by the Chair and carried—after which, Stevens and the greater number of those present on the floor, took their departure.

Patterson, of New Hampshire, next took the floor on reconstruction, and read a long address relating to the political situation of the South.

The Senate then took up the Supplementary Reconstruction bill, allowing a majority of the votes cast to decide the elections, and registered voters to vote in any part of the State.

Davis withdrew his motion to refer it to the Judiciary Committee, whereupon, after a debate, Buckalew's amendment requiring a residence of ten days in the District before the election, was agreed to.

Williams offered an amendment adding the words "an affidavit or other satisfactory evidence after the requirement of presentation of certificates of registration," as without this provision, he claimed, that half the electors would be practically disfranchised. It was agreed to.

Sherman moved to add, as an additional section,

And be it further enacted, That the Constitutional Conventions of any of the States mentioned in any of the acts of which this is amendatory, may provide that, at the time of voting on the ratification of the Constitution, the registered voters may vote also for members of the House of Representatives of the United States, and all the elective officers provided for in said Constitution, and the election officers who shall make the return of the votes on the ratification or rejection of the Constitution, shall enumerate or certify to the number of votes cast for members of Congress. Agreed to.

Davis moved to amend it by requiring that all the elections provided for shall take place on the same day in each State, and the bill was passed by 28 to 6.

The Chair appointed as the select committee on Howard's resolution, Howard, Trumbull, Conklin, Edmonds, Morton, Pomeroy and Johnson.

On motion of Sherman the Reconstruction bill was postponed until Thursday.

HOUSE.

Under the call of the States a large number of joint resolutions were introduced and refused, including the following:

For the muster out of all army Paymasters, Quartermasters and Commissioners not on duty for the past three months.

Amending the act changing the time of holding the District and Circuit Courts of the United States in Tennessee.

For the reduction of all votes for members of the House, or for any person known to be ineligible by the person casting them.

At twenty minutes before two o'clock the Speaker called the House to order, and announced the presence at the bar of the House of the committee which had been appointed to impeach, at the bar of the Senate, the President of the United States.

Stevens, of Pennsylvania, standing in company with his colleague, Bingham, then reported as follows:

"Mr. Speaker; In obedience to the order of the House, we proceeded to the bar of the Senate, and proceeded in your name, and in the name of this body, and all the people of the United States, we impeached, as we were directed, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, of high crimes and misdemeanors in office, and we demanded that the Senate shall take order to make him appear before that body and answer for the same, and stated that the House would forthwith, or soon, I did not state which, present articles of impeachment and make them good, to which the response was, 'the order shall be taken.'"

On motion of Ingersoll, the Senate bill appropriating $15,000 for the temporary relief of the destitute people of the District of Columbia was taken up, and amended by Wood, by making the fund disbursable by the Bureau and Aid Society jointly, and passed.

The Speaker presented a communication from the Secretary of War, with the report of Maj.-Gen. Hancock, as to the riot at Marshall, Texas, on the 31st of December. Referred to the Committee on Reconstruction.

Also, the Constitution of Alabama, as revised and amended by the Convention at Montgomery, likewise referred.

The House then proceeded with the consideration of the naval appropriation bill, which was passed.

Washburne, of Illinois, from the Committee on Rules, reported a new rule, declaring that pending a motion to suspend the rules, the Speaker may entertain one motion "that the House shall now adjourn," but that after the result thereof is announced he shall not entertain any other dilatory motion.

He also asked leave, and offered the following:

Resolved, That the rules shall be suspended as hereby ordered, viz: When the Committee to prepare the articles of impeachment of the President of the United States, report the said articles, the House shall immediately resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole thereon, and that the speakers in the Committee shall be limited to fifteen minutes each, which debate shall continue until the next legislative report, to the exclusion of all other business except the reading of the Journal, and at 3 p.m. of said second day, the fifteen minutes debate shall cease, and the Committee shall then proceed to consider and vote upon the amendments that may be offered, under the fifteen minutes' rule of debate, but no merely pro femo amendment shall be entertained; and that at 4 p.m. of said second day, the said Committee shall rise and report its action to the House, which shall immediately and without dilatory motion, vote thereon, and that if the articles of impeachment are agreed upon, the House shall then immediately and without dilatory motion, elect by ballot seven managers, to conduct said impeachment, on the part of the House, and that during the pendency of said resolutions in the House, relative to said impeachment, and thereafter, no dilatory motions shall be received, except one motion each day that "the House do now adjourn."

The resolution was adopted.

Boutwell offered a resolution that the committee appointed to prepare and report articles of impeachment against the President, and the Committee on Reconstruction, be severally authorized to sit during the sessions of the House. Adopted.

The Senate's amendment to the House bill declaring the railroad and bridges of the New Orleans, Mobile and Chattanooga Railroad a post road, was concurred in.

WE would remind dealers in Ice in the railroad and river towns, that the Spring is the best time to lay in their stock. While we are unloading we can sell it by car-load or in large quantities cheaper than after it is put in store, and the wastage in transit is much less. Packing orders promptly filled when money is sent with them, or when ordered through a city merchant.

REMOVAL.

Our friends will remember that the APPEAL BUSINESS OFFICE is now located at No. 13 Jefferson street.

The EDITORIAL ROOMS of the APPEAL have been removed to No. 14 Jefferson street, upstairs, where we will be glad to see our friends at all times.

Job Printing, of all kinds, executed at the Appeal. Satisfaction guaranteed.

STOCK FOUND.—A mare mule and horse, stolen some time since, was recovered yesterday by police officer Shook. They are in charge of the authorities, awaiting claimants.

MINK SKINS.—Mr. Justice Hall found it necessary yesterday to send one McBrown, a negro, to a higher court for trial, charged with stealing some mink skins and other fur.

ROOM ROBBERY.—A young man by the name of W. J. Rose, No. 91 Poplar street, while asleep in his room had his apartments entered Monday night and a silver mounted revolver taken therefrom.

RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS.—Anna Jones, a colored resident of South Memphis, was sent up yesterday, by Justice Black, charged with stealing a lot of boot tops. The Criminal Court may do the accused justice.

STREET ROBBERY.—A young man named August Acherhorn was knocked down last night, back of the Navy Yard, and robbed of the amount of eight dollars. We suppose our Memphis patrons were disappointed in their small profits.

THE MARRE CASE.—Col. John Bullock closed the argument for the defense in this case yesterday, making a very eloquent, forcible and effective speech. He is doubtless one of the best criminal lawyers in the Southwest. Col. Geo. Gantt will argue for the State to-day, when the case will be given to the jury.

FRESH IMPORTATIONS.—Messrs. A. Vaccaro & Co., wholesale liquor dealers, are now receiving, direct from Scotland and England, large importations of genuine Younger's ale and London porter, for the trade. They are among the oldest and most solid merchants of the city. Our genial friend Col. M. Mageveny, jr., of the old 154th, presides at the desk.

STEALING A WATCH.—An old colored citizen named Sam Jones, was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by Justice Glisson, charged with stealing a silver watch from Tom Branch. The timer was found in the boot-leg of the accused, by officer Goll, of the Metropolitan Police force. On the 27th the Squire will give him an audience, when his guilt or innocence will be determined.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The general report that the Gayoso House would close on the first of March, is not true. It will be continued open, as usual. I am thankful to my friends for past patronage and ask a continuance of the same. My charges are three dollars per day, and thirty-five dollars per month for day board. D. COCKRELL.

EXORBITANT.—We are informed that the postmaster at LaGrange, Tenn., who is known in that vicinity as Wendell Phillips, has taxed our subscribers the sum of twenty-five cents per week postage. We know of no law by which this exorbitant charge can be collected, and it will be our fault if we do not make full inquiry into this matter and fully expose this (as we are informed) existing evil.

BRAYFOGLE, JR., AGAIN.—The Louisville Courier of the 23d has the following: An effort was made yesterday to release the young man L. B. Fould on a writ of habeas corpus, but in consideration of the case being under investigation before the City Court, Judge Johnston continued a hearing until Monday. In the meantime the officer from Memphis is hourly expected with a requisition from the Governor of Tennessee to take Fould back to that point to answer the grave charge against him.

MEMPHIS AND CHARLESTON RAILROAD.—The following are the receipts and expenditures of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad for the month of January, 1868:

Receipts from passengers	$ 53,500
" " freight	45,420
" " mail	3,430
" " expresses	6,200
" " rents and privileges	859
	$109 409
Operating expenses	47,064
Net earnings	$ 62,345

THE RALEIGH MINERAL SPRINGS—A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.—The proprietor of the Raleigh Mineral Springs regrets to inform the public that he finds himself compelled to withdraw the scheme for the present. The expense attending it has been very great, while the number of tickets thus far sold does not warrant the belief that it can succeed within a reasonable time, and then not without an outlay of money which he is both unwilling and unable to make. It is his intention to resume the scheme on or about the first of September next, if that time should be deemed favorable. The loss thus far incurred has been all his own. Ticket-holders have only to present their tickets at the office and their money will be returned. He desires to thank those generous friends who have given him their encouragement and assistance, and especially to thank the members of the press for their valuable aid,
J. M. COLEMAN.
MEMPHIS, February 25, 1868.

RITE OF CONFIRMATION.

Interesting Ceremonies—Eloquent Address by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Wilmer, of Louisiana.

[CONCLUDED FROM YESTERDAY.]

On the one side you will behold a growing relaxation of Church order in favor of a naked Protestantism. Many good men are jealous of their liberty to depart from the prayer book at their own option, to affiliate with other religious bodies, to unite in all their schemes of benevolence, and not unfrequently in acts of public worship, regardless of the offence produced among their brethren in the same household of faith. The developments on the other side, are equally conspicuous. A pious zeal for the spread of the Gospel mingles itself with sighs for the restoration of Catholic unity in the Church. More frequent services and sacraments are coveted, more gorgeous solemnities to combine the grandeur of the ancient worship, with the purity of the reformed faith. Impatient of bigotry and restraint, both classes are zealously engaged, one in drawing closer the ties which bind us to our Protestant brethren, the other in healing the divisions between the branches of the ancient Catholic Church. It was expected by many, that the Lambeth Conference would raise its stern voice to check these deviations, and to urge a more rigid conformity to one standard of faith and worship. It refrained from any such attempt, leaving these questions where they were left before, to Diocesan authority, subject when necessary to the decision of a higher tribunal. It abstained from words of suspicion and distrust, and by its silence, has administered a rebuke to those who are prone to agitation and harsh accusations against their brethren. In the judgment of the Lambeth Conference, these existing tendencies are not heresies to be condemned, but antagonism is to be won by mutual forbearance. Until they issue in results more bold and defiant, the time will not have arrived, to awaken the sleeping thunders of ecclesiastical discipline, and expel them by authority. When the evil effects of theological rancor are so familiar to us in history, the benignant tone of this Conference can hardly fail of its effect. Good men will be slow to offend against a power, thus serene in its dignity, and sublimely raised above the clamor of faction. Pacification can no longer be regarded as perfidy. The two systems will each find scope for the healthful exercise of their powers, divided, only as the wings of a dove are divided, which is the image chosen in Scripture to denote peace. So let the church go forth, not dividing, but combining its strength, and in the equal libration of its wings advancing to the fulfilment of its mission, which is not then either checked or endangered. I am thankful in the conviction, that among all the public councils which have convened in the church, the Conference at Lambeth will be distinguished as the council of conciliation and peace.

Another benefit from this meeting, and one more positive in its nature, is the unanimous testimony of unchanging confidence in our ancient heritage of faith and worship. Under the frightful assaults which are being waged at this moment against the truth of God, it cannot be denied that this Conference has tended to banish distrust of the primitive faith and doctrine, as taught in Holy Scripture, condensed in the creeds, and approved by the earlier Councils of the undivided Church. No one can mistake the clear language in which this is expressed in the published declarations of the Conference, and the Pastoral address of the Bishops to the Church. Latitudinarian had no voice in that Conference, nor the subtleties of Socinianism. What could be more explicit than the entreaty, to hold fast the Scriptures as the sure word of God, and that doctrine which is the life of all other doctrines. "Jesus Christ, very God, and very man, ever to be worshipped and adored." Romanism had no apologists in that body. What could be more pronounced, than the warning against the great error and superstition of that Church, in the exaltation of the Virgin Mary, as mediator in the place of her Divine Son? Nearly allied to one or the other of these grievous errors, are a thousand novelties of faith and practice, religious, philanthropic, educational, moral, the rank growth of this licentious age, which are condemned in the wise exhortation, "to abide in the steadfast communion of saints, whenever God hath granted you a place—to seek in faith for oneness with Christ in the Blessed Sacrament of His Body and Blood—to hold fast the pure worship and order, which of God's grace ye have inherited from the primitive Church—to seek for unity amongst yourselves and amongst all the faithful in Christ Jesus." No one who studies the real meaning and significance of this phraseology, can fail to see, that while this Conference has refrained from the harsh and violent tone too often adopted in the counsels of the past, the whole weight of its influence has been given to authenticate old truths, and to preserve undefiled, the Temple in which our fathers worshipped. That some brief enunciations of the kind was wanted, cannot be disputed. So intense is the conflict between truth and error—so multiplied are the fallacies of modern thought, that good men were disturbed in their faith, holy convictions were stifled, and the cry of old and young went forth: Where is the Church, where is her guardian care, her sympathy, her promised aid to maintain the faith of her children? Shall we find fault that at this crisis, when men's hearts were torn and distracted with the strife of words, a solemn affirmation of the old faith should issue from the highest authority known to the Church, and that the Bishops should assemble, far and near, to fulfil this trust, and affix their seal to this testimony. Can we doubt the good effect which will be produced? Can we fail to behold in this act the presence of Him who has promised to be with His Church always, even to the end of the world? Gainsayers will continue to gainsay—the censorious will find fault that the utterances are too weak, the sensitive, that they are too strong. The world will of course lavish its content upon this and all other impotent declarations of faith. But the true hearted will become more united, and the wavering and doubting will, in many cases, bless God hereafter for the faithful words that were spoken at the Lambeth Conference.

The next benefit for which we are indebted to this Conference is one of grave importance. It has demonstrated the organic unity of the Anglican branch of the Catholic Church. A glance at history will be necessary to make this understood. Since the lamented division of the Church between the East and West in the sixth century, the Church of England struggled vigorously against the Church of Rome. It struggled in vain until the sixteenth century, when the civil power came to its aid, as the Heathen King was employed for the release of ancient Israel. Under like protection, the Church of England was at length successful in detaching itself from bondage to the Latin Church. Under a purer reign, it hastened to review its ancient forms of worship, and to protest its loyalty to the primitive and Catholic Church. Its Protestantism is thus an appeal from the sixteenth to the sixth century. Unlike the bold and impetuous Luther, the Reformers of the English Church did not attempt to teach dogmas of their own, or to make a new church to be called after their own names; they did not form a Lutheran Church or a Calvanistic, or a Wesleyan Church. Adhering to the ancient succession of Bishops, clinging fast to the ancient worship purged of its superstitions, worshipping in the same Temples, the Reformed Church remained the National Church of England. From that hour it has stood erect in the majesty of its ancient authority, witnessing both to small and great, the Faith once delivered to the saints. You will not forget this fact, brethren of the Laity, when you hear the Church accused of asserting the right claimed by other Protestant bodies, to segregate themselves, to consult taste rather than authority, in the choice of teachers and of doctrines. The Church of England disclaims any such right, confessing her obligations to abide by the ministry descending in historical succession from the Apostles. Her present form of church government is preserved, not as the best among many, not as the most imposing and consonant to her judgment for the time being. True to her Divine Head, when he prayed that all may be one, this Church clings to the established order of the ministry, the ancient creeds, with inviolable jealousy: preferring obedience to novelty, and the blessings of security to the splendid visions of another Dispensation. Three hundred years have elapsed since this Reformation. What has been the result? The Lambeth Conference afforded an opportunity to prove this question, and to test the unity of the Anglican Church. For many years the Mother Church has been sending forth her branches among the more vigorous nations of the earth. Removed from the restraints of old associations, exposed to the local influences of every clime, experience alone could show if any disruption or change would be attempted, which would effect their relation to the Mother Church. Schism had reached other Protestant bodies. How has it proved with the English Church? Has the bond which once existed been snapped asunder, or has it not? Has the power which kept the Church together lost its vitality by diffusion, or has it been invigorated? It was shown that the developments at Lambeth would test this fact so vital to church unity. The result, thank God, was to shame the timid, and to silence the incredulous and profane. No schism had spoiled the fair beauty of our Zion. No contingency had occurred to make any change or modification necessary to meet the changing circumstances of the Church. The old prayer book was proved to have no more rigid adherents at home than abroad; none gave utterance to stronger expressions of attachment to the Church of England, than did the Bishops of the Colonial Churches, and of our own in the United States; none en[illegible] temples; none hailed with greater enthusiasm, the growing manifestation of her life and power. It was impossible to listen to so many voices of sympathy coming from distant regions, and not feel that the Anglican Church was one, not in name only—that as the pulse beats at the heart, it was beating at the extremities. Upon the questions debated in Conference, it was edifying to witness the diversities of opinion adjust themselves, and unquiet thoughts subside into repose. It was a scene worthy to be commemorated in history, when the pastoral address was read, to behold the seventy Bishops rise to their feet, and with one voice approve it as their own. It is a favorite assumption among the enemies of the Reformation, that there is no real ecclesiastical unity, except in the Church of Rome; that persons seeking a refuge from perplexity and strife, will seek it in vain elsewhere. This arrogant assumption has no meaning in its application to the church represented at Lambeth. No student of history, who is conversant with the council of Trent, or who is familiar with the vexed questions which yet divide the Roman priesthood, will ever be moved by a divine influence, to exchange the unity of the Anglican Church for the unity of the Church of Rome.

What future trial may await this Church is known only to God. Rival parties may afflict one Church, as rival Popes and rival councils have afflicted the other. Let us rejoice with trembling lest we be chastened for our pride. Many things exist to humble us, to make us watchful, to keep us low at the foot of the cross. Condemning ourselves, we shall be less tempted to condemn others: drawing nearer to our Divine Lord, we have the surest pledge of our union with His true disciples; becoming more like Christ, we shall be more like each other; and the unity of the Church will be not an historical fact only, but the vital expression of our fellowship in the Holy Ghost. Blessed hope, which makes the soul long to escape from restraint, to annihilate sects and systems, and to embrace in one fold "all who love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity."

And this opens to our view the last, and perhaps the greatest benefit derived from this Anglican Conference. It has inaugurated the movement for a General Council, and ultimately for a visible Union of all the faithful, looking for the coming of the day of Christ. Nothing more full of meaning has emanated from that body, than the words which express "the deep sorrow with which we view the divided condition of the flock of Christ," and the exhortation, which is incorporated in the address, "to seek for unity amongst ourselves and amongst all the faithful of Christ Jesus." Added to this is the earnest hope, expressed in the last resolution that this conference will be followed by "other meetings to be conducted in the same spirit of brotherly love." Solemn words like these are mere conventionalisms, unworthy of the occasion, or they are real words, pondered over with profound wisdom, and prophetic of great results to the kingdom of Christ on earth. Is it to wrest these words from their proper meaning, to make them plead for a future Conference, more comprehensive, more fully accredited as a Council, and more beneficent in its results to the peace and prosperity of the Catholic Church. Facts are encouraging. Already the stern heart of sectarianism has been stirred to its depths on this issue of Christian union. It is seeking for it in the Evangelical alliance, annually celebrated in Europe, which claims far more of our sympathy than our scorn. It is struggling to realize it, in the mission prayer meeting, and other associations of religious enterprise in our own land; and however mistaken the form, it denotes the sympathy of the popular heart of christendom to be for Union. Cold bigotry may knit its brow, the world may shout its derision in the presence of such a spectacle, but it is none the less worthy of the attention of every thoughtful mind. It is typical of some great event. As in the grotesque superstitions of the heathen, we behold a fallen world sighing for the great Atonement; as in the altar erected at Athens, with its inscription to the unknown God, the discerning eye of the Apostle could behold the struggling aspirations of a benighted people, for the true worship of Jehovah; not less affecting is it to perceive in this mingled worship of religious sects, so long torn and distracted by division, the pulsations of a universal brotherhood, and the earnest and intense longing after a near and permanent unity. Shall this holy impulse be allowed to die away? or shall it not rather be fostered, and encouraged to seek a more legitimate and worthy consummation?

The world affects to sneer at Church Councils as vain and useless. The world is in error. We have the authority of a great historian* for saying that the world is indebted to the Council of Nice for the first idea of a true representative assembly. The fact stands confessed that nations have been taught how to rule and legislate for their subjects by the example of the Church. A few years ago, our American Branch of the Church assembled in general Convention at the close of the war, to legislate for healing its wounds, and recovering the broken ties of ecclesiastical unity. In one day that task was completed. I am bold to say if the civil power had been wise enough to work after that model, the peace of the Church would have been the peace of the nation.

This lesson is not yet completed. If we rightly interpret events, the world will be indebted to the Church for a more potent revelation of legislative and moral power in the future.

Science is busy in preparing facilities for the end, which is there contemplated. History will confirm the assertion, that the progress of Christianity has always been responsive to the slow and stately march of scientific discovery. With the invention of printing, a new impulse was given to the study of Holy Scripture and to its diffusion; the use of types almost succeeding to the gift of tongues in the spread of the Gospel. The next great discovery was the use of steam, which the Church was quick to interpret as a grand auxiliary in the same holy cause. At length the benignant hand of science has presented us with a new and almost ubiquitous power in the telegraph. Mountains and seas have ceased to divide mankind. The wide abyss of space hardly affects the intercourse of men, any more than it affects the fleet inhabitants, which people the world of spirits. Representation will now lose half its responsibilities and all its imperfections. Communications can now be exchanged in articulate language at the distance of thousands of leagues. The mighty globe is reduced to the dimensions of a Council Hall, and the whole Church can assemble under one roof. What aid may be rendered to legislation, and what energy to counsel, and what enthusiasm to hope, when every syllable uttered in deliberation, shall send its pulsations through a thousand veins to the remotest extremity of the earth; and the Church, the mystical body of Christ, shall be quickened by one impulse, and shall stand electrified with nerves of unity, unknown and unfelt before! Is it presumptuous to suppose that the Council is not very far distant, which shall verify the Saviour's prayer, "that they all may be one"—one in sympathy, one in faith, one in the bonds of a visible brotherhood.

Impossible! The very suggestion will strike most minds as a visionary conception. The experience of ages is opposed to it—the prejudices of sect will defeat it—the inexorable resolve of wise and learned men to make no concessions, will stifle the project in its birth. Thus did men reason but yesterday upon the bold adventure to span the chasm of the ocean with the telegraph. The floods will lift up their voice against it, the tempests laugh it to scorn—the caves of the ocean will refuse it shelter—the insulted powers of nature will all rush to defend the great schism which was ordained of God, to divide the continents of the old and new world, till the end of time. The result has silenced the incredulous, and confound the wise. The enthusiast is now greeted as the sage, and the speculations of philosophers have become the scorn of fools.

At such a time, men may think boldly and speak boldly. Supposing it to be true that the prayer of Christ does refer to external unity and fellowship among his followers; then so great a good must have a beginning. A sudden miracle will not affect it. Heavenly messengers can not be beckoned from the sky, to join our hands in visible brotherhood. The great result will be preceded by a quiet movement in portions of the church now praying for it; and where is it so likely that this gracious impulse shall have its birth, as in that branch, which we believe to be most allied in doctrine, and in vital sympathy with the primitive church. I am deceived or the Conference of Lambeth is the first of a succession of councils which shall issue in making the churches of God one church, and of the people of God one people.

I hope one day to say more, and to proclaim the conviction that in the presence of this scene, the nations of the earth will cease from strife and discord, and the peace of the world will be a grand inspiration from the Brotherhood of the Church! This sentiment so imperfectly set forth in this address, and destined to sink into obscurity, will one day be disinterred, and cited as a new proof that the prophecy of one age becomes the history of another.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE Black Crook continues to fill the New Memphis Theater. Last night, notwithstanding the rain, there was an excellent house, and the piece went off with great eclat. A large portion of the audience had come in on the special train from Brownsville, and there were some present who had never seen such "sights" before. There were several beautiful young ladies among the Brownsville visitors, and their bright smiles will haunt more than one of the gay gallants who will be visiting Brownsville before long. The dancing of Leah, Sands and Laurent was greatly appreciated.

CONCERT.—Owing to the unfavorableness of the weather last evening the concert for the benefit of our young townsman, Henry Farmer, Esq., was not largely attended. A very fashionable and appreciative audience, however, congregated in the Greenlaw Opera House and testified their interest in the performances by a warm applause of the same. Mrs. Tomlinson and Miss Nora Bradford were ill, and consequently not present, though all of the other ladies and gentlemen whose names were announced as intended participants were present, and regaled the audience with many splendid pieces of musical composition.

VARIETIES.—The applause obtained from appreciating audiences nightly, attest the judicious management and the merit of the actors. Among those who have made rapid advancement in the Terpsichorean art is Miss Lisette Wheeler, who was deservedly encored three times, in her graceful dance. The pieces are various, and the performers are always up in their parts. Miss Helen De Vere is always received with applause. Miss Sallie Eldridge still remains one of the "bright particular stars" of the establishment.

A Card.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

It has been a custom in all political contests, and one willingly conceded by all, that men, when they choose to bring themselves before the public, are liable to be "publicly criticised." The party to which I have the honor to belong, invites such free discussion without ever descending to low personalities, which are never the resort of a high-toned, just, or honorable journalist. For those who know me, no advocacy to prove the abject falsehood of the Avalanche's diatribe on me, is necessary. To those who do not, most probably a contemptuous silence would be its best refutation. As far as regards denying my native land, to gainsay such, would lend it importance, and if I have stood by the flag of my father's and my own adoption, I think I have done that from which I need not recoil with remorse, and more than those from whom a like course should have been expected.

If such families as those of whom I will or may have been the guests choose to accord that native spirit of hospitality, it is their sole business. It is for them to say whether my deportment has been such as to warrant their kindness, and not a shallow, presumptuous local, who publicly demonstrates his lack of such accomplishments and recommendations. It is not my purpose to urge a personal controversy, and no one feels more delicacy about appearing in public print. Even now I would feel loth were it not to give my friends the assurance that these personalities, which are expunged from high-toned journalistic columns, fall as harmless as the shafts of envy only can. Respectfully,
HUGH L. FOX.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

It rained again yesterday, but not hard enough to give any hope of an immediate rise in the rivers. By a private dispatch we learn that there are thirty inches to Pine Bluff in the Arkansas. There is no rise, but the channel had cut out. The Ohio is falling all the way from the head waters to the mouth. There is no change for the better at St. Louis, and the channel thence to Cairo has barely five feet, and falling. The decline at this point goes on steadily.

Boats in Port.

Darling, Tennessee, Cora S., Centralia, Guidon, Celeste, Gleaner.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Cora S. leaves to-day, with Hicks King in command, for Cairo and Louisville. Mr. Al Croxall is her good looking secretary.

The Centralia, Capt. Nowland, leaves to-morrow for the Arkansas river carrying the United States mail. She is a comfortable low water passenger packet. Mr. Outlaw is clerk.

The Nick Longworth, Capt. Irwin, passes up to-day for Cairo and Louisville. She leaves the City wharf boat at 12 m.

The Westmoreland was due yesterday from above on her way to New Orleans. Capt. Jim Chenoweth is on the roof.

The Leonidas is due from Cincinnati. She has on board a lot of coaches, hacks, buggies and invalid wagons for Col. Chidester, the famous stage man of Arkansas. The invalid wagons are furnished with beds, bedding, etc., and will be used to convey the sick from Little Rock to the Hot Springs.

Messrs. Mike Pyne and Jo Banfil left by last night's train—the former for Evansville, and the latter for St. Louis. Capt. Pyne, who owns the St. Patrick, is not aware of any movement upon the part of St. Louis merchants to buy that packet for the Vicksburg trade, and says that, live or die, sink or swim, survive or perish, she stays where she now is as long as there is water to run on or freights to carry.

The Guidon, which left this port for St. Louis on Monday evening, blew out a cylinder head a short distance up the river and had to return to this port for repairs, upon the completion of which she will again leave for St. Louis and the mountains.

The Paragon will be in port to leave to-day at 5 p.m. for Cairo and St. Louis. She runs under the auspices of the St. Louis Packet Company, and is a comfortable packet.

The Indiana, Capt. Neal, with Charley Shultz in the office, passes down to day for the bends and New Orleans. She leaves at 5 p.m.

The Darling could not get away last night owing to the rain, but will positively back out at 5 p.m. to-day. She has a cargo engaged. Capt. Lew. Kates is master, and the popular and whole-souled Mr. Powers is at the desk.

The Tennessee, Capt. Hall, leaves to-day for Cairo. She was also detained by the rain yesterday. The Tennessee is a regular packet and deserving of patronage.

The Gen. Quitman will be in port to-day and leave to-morrow for New Orleans and all way landings. She is the regular U. S. mail packet, and is in charge of Capt. J. M. White, a veteran commander. Much of the deserved popularity of "Old Thunderbolt" is due to the worth of such men as White, Howard and Smith, who have charge of her.

The Commercial got away last night for White river with a good trip.

The trip of the Des Arc for Vicksburg was an improvement over her first one in the trade, and we hope they will continue to increase until she does a good paying business.

The wreck of the Clara Dolsen sold for $125.

It is said that Capt. John McDonald, late of the Mepham, has bought an interest in the Guidon.

The Kate Putnam sunk three miles below St. Louis on Saturday night last. She will be raised, and was insured for $20,000.

Col. J. W. Jefferson, the well known cotton buyer of Front street, returned home yesterday from a trip East. He met Capt. Nat Green in Washington. The Colonel has not formed an exalted idea of the people who inhabit the cities of magnificent distances.

At last account the Lizzie Gill was still aground above Cairo, with her jack-staff and gallows-frame knocked down.

Regular Memphis, Cairo and Evansville Weekly Packet.

BRAZILIAN EMIGRATION AND STEAMSHIP AGENCY.
[Charles Nathan's Contract.]

THE FIRST STEAMER UNDER this Contract will be dispatched from New Orleans about the 15th March. The Steamers of this Line will be First-class. No discrimination will be made in the accommodations for passengers. All will be furnished with good berths and bedding; plenty of substantial, well-cooked food; all will sit at the same tables; medical attendance and medicines will be furnished, free of charge; ample attendance of servants, etc.

Mr. Nathan's contract obligates him to transport Emigrants, their personal effects and agricultural implements, to Rio de Janeiro; to board and lodge them while there; and to transport them thence to the Port on the Coast nearest the Settlement selected.

Price of Passage, for adults, $150, gold, to Rio de Janeiro from New Orleans. Children of 3 to 10 years, $75, gold.

Should the emigrant desire to be carried to any other port than Rio de Janeiro, $20, gold, extra, will be charged. These prices are higher than those first decided on by Mr. Nathan six months ago, but have become necessary to meet the enhanced outlay of chartering first-class ocean steamers. This advanced price is much less than is charged on the Mail Steamers from New York to Rio de Janeiro; while on Mr. Nathan's steamers the accommodations will be much superior; the Emigrant will be saved the additional expense and delay of the trip to New York, and will, besides, be maintained until he reaches his ultimate destination.

A Circular, giving further details of Mr. Nathan's Contract, will be sent to any one. Parties desirous of securing passage on the first steamer, should apply early. Address,

MEMPHIS, TENN., February 15, 1868.

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY.—WE HAVE the Agency of West Tennessee of one of the oldest and richest corporations of Life Insurance in the United States. Was chartered in 1846. It is purely mutual. It pays no stockholders for the use of capital, no bonuses or commissions to officers, and no immoderate compensation to agents. It has but one class of members, both new and old, sharing equally in the annual divisions of surplus, receiving a dividend on every premium paid. This company anticipate their dividends at (50 per cent.) fifty per cent. in the event of death, so there will not be a note deducted from the policy in settling with ones heirs. The dividends of the "Connecticut Mutual" have been the largest of any company on record, having exceeded in the average, through its entire history, fifty (50) per cent. annually. Do not delay this very important matter. Call at our office and investigate. feb15 1m

SUBURBAN LAND
FOR SALE AND LEASE.

BEING DESIROUS OF DISPOSING OF MY Land, situated about three miles east of the city, in a manner to suit the times, I offer it in lots of about five acres or more, upon the following

EASY TERMS:

One-tenth payable on the 1st of January, 1869, and the balance in nine equal annual installments, bearing six per cent. interest, the purchaser to construct, within a fixed time, improvements of a stipulated value;

Or, I will give a perpetual lease, the lessee paying an annual rent at the rate of six per cent. on an agreed valuation, and having the privilege of buying the land at any time, by paying the amount of the valuation, but binding himself to construct thereon improvements of a stipulated value.

I will also lease for a term of five or ten years, to applicants able to give satisfactory references for good character, a certain quantity of the same tract of land, for enclosing which I will furnish the necessary fencing.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, February 25, 1868.

The local money market for the week has been without noticeable change. Early in the week Eastern Exchange was offered in large quantities, but during the last few days the offerings have fallen off. Rates are the same on all Eastern points. Buying at ⅛ to ¼ discount, and selling at par. New Orleans sight is taken at ¼ to ⅛ discount, and sold at 1-5 premium.

The Gold market is less flourishing than might be expected under the excited state of affairs in Washington. The premium is somewhat advanced since our last. It opened to-day in New York at 142⅜, and closed at same. Our brokers in some cases have sold short, and are buying at rates very close upon New York quotations. Small lots, early in the day, were taken by brokers at 141. We quote selling at New York rates, though some dealers are asking even higher figures.

Police Scrip is in good demand. Brokers buy at 80 to 83c; selling at 85 to 90c, as to amount.

City Scrip is dull. There is a large amount upon the market, but it is in large pieces, and mostly unavailable. Buying rates are, in consequence, very irregular. Small warrants will bring readily 5c on the dollar more than large ones. We quote, 39 to 40c buying; selling at 45 to 50c, though a round lot could be bought at 40c from dealers.

County Warrants are dull. Buying at 50c, and selling at 55 to 60c.

Our last week's review of the Cotton market closed with Middlings active and excited at 22 to 22½c. On Wednesday the market was ½c better. On Thursday the Liverpool market was excited and irregular, while the New York dispatches quoted that market active at 24½c for Uplands. Another advance occurred here on that day of ½c. On Friday all the markets were active, and quotations on that day in Liverpool reached the highest point attained during the week, i. e., Uplands, 10⅛d; Orleans, 10⅜d. The closing New York quotations were as follows: Uplands, 24c; Orleans, 24½c—23 to 23½c were the prevailing rates here. There was a decline of ⅛d in Liverpool on Saturday, and in New York there was no business done—it being Washington's birthday. Here the market was dull and prices nominally 1c lower than on Friday. Yesterday the Liverpool market was heavy and declined. New York opened dull and nominal, and closed with a fair demand, Middlings, 22½c; Orleans, 23½c. Our market was very quiet, and prices nominally 21 to 21½c. The Liverpool market to-day at the opening was declining, Uplands, 9⅝d; Orleans, 9⅞d. At noon it was quiet and unchanged, but at 5 p.m. it was firmer, with Uplands to arrive, 9⅝d. The New York market was dull at the opening, and prices lower, Middlings, 22½c; Orleans, 23c. At noon, transactions were small and prices declining. At 1 p.m. the tendency was still down, Low Middlings, 21½c; Middlings, 22c; Good Middlings, 23½c; Orleans, 22½c. At 2 p.m. there was a change. Holders were asking higher prices, with market firm, Middlings, 22½c; Orleans, 23c; Low Middlings, 21½c. At the close the export demand was good, and prices firm. Sales, 3000 bales. Our market early in the day was dull and depressed. Holders were anxious, but not disposed to crowd the market, except where parties were urging to a sale. Several small lots changed hands on a basis of 20c for Middlings, but after the news came in prices jumped up at least 1c, and closed fully 1 to 1½c better in the estimation of dealers, while many factors would not take less than 22c for the same cottons which would not have brought over 20c only a few hours before. We could learn of but few sales late in the day, though several large lists were bought just as the news was received. The market closed with a strong upward tendency.

Wholesale Market.

The general Markets for the past week have been active, and prices are very firm.

The Dry Goods market, though lightly supplied, has been active with a large demand for staple goods. Prices are about the same as at our last, with no prospect of a decline, owing to the small supply of manufactured goods and the high price of cotton. The impression prevails that prices, during the coming season, will remain firm, if not higher than at present. Prints and white cottons have been about exhausted in this market, though new supplies are being daily received. The New York Bulletin of the 20th says of that market:

"Prices of Prints have advanced, Pacifics being now quoted at 14c, with a proportionate rise in other makes. Fine Brown Sheetings are still scarce, and many desirable brands are sold at value, ahead of production. Stocks are reported light throughout the country, and heavy orders are being constantly received, which are difficult to fill even with a slight margin. New York Cottonades are 5c higher, and there is a somewhat better demand for these goods. Stripes, Ticks and Denims are moderately active."

At a sale of British dress goods held in that city on the 20th, the bidding was good on such staple goods as are scarce on the market, the Black Alpacas especially bringing very fair prices. On the fancy goods rates went lower, but rates were as favorable as could have been anticipated, when it is considered that they were not of this season's importations. We annex a few prices: 32 inch, 1200 madder, lawns, 13½ to 14c.; do. 1400, 16½c The Black Alpacas were of different grades, and sold almost up to Price List.

The Boot and Shoe market is quiet, but the demand is good, with no change in quotations. Stocks are still much below the requirements, and will not be replenished before the 1st to the 10th of next month. Prices are well maintained in the East, and Eastern dealers are, as a general thing, unable to fill large orders without some indulgence as to time.

The Grocery market has been moderately active, with a fair demand for sugars, which are firm but not higher than last week. Coffee has advanced, with a fair stock.

The Provision market for the week has been active, with very light stock. Meats of all kinds have been in such light supply as to almost preclude wholesale quotations. Holders are asking, and have received, almost any figure desired on Bulk Meats in a small way, but now that navigation is resumed to St. Louis we may look for more uniformity of prices.

Corn has been somewhat irregular, and closes firm at our quotations. Seed Oats are in good demand and rather scarce. Potatoes are firm and in demand. Stocks of all kinds have never been as light in this market for the past few weeks.

To CONSUMPTIVES.

It is authentically stated that one-fifth of the inhabitants of this country and Europe die of Consumption. No disease has been more thoroughly studied, and its nature less understood; there is no disease upon which exists a greater diversity of opinion, and no disease which has more completely baffled all medical skill and remedial agencies.

Some of the prominent symptoms are Cough, Expectoration, Shortness of Breath, Irritation about the Lungs and Chest, darting Pains in the Sides and Back, Emaciation, and general negative condition of the whole system.

Persons suffering with this dread disease, or any of its concomitants, should lose no time in possessing themselves of the proper Remedy in order that they may stay its ravages, and be restored to health. The

Rev. A. E. Wilson's

Prepared Prescription for the Cure of

Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis,
COUGHS, COLDS,
And all Throat and Lung Affections,

By the use of which he was restored to health in a few weeks, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affection and that dread disease, Consumption, has now been in use over ten years with the most marked success.

This remedy is prepared from the original Recipe, chemically pure, by the Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, 165 South Second street, Williamsburgh, Kings county, New York.

A pamphlet containing the original prescription with full and explicit directions for preparation and use, together with a short history of his case, with symptoms, experience and cure, can be obtained (free of charge) of Mr. Wilson, as above, or by calling on or addressing

KAVANAGH & DECKER'S BILLIARD TABLES

THE most reliable Cushion used on Billiard Tables is the

Cat-Gut Cushion,

Manufactured by KAVANAUGH & DECKER, and patented December 18, 1866. (See Scientific American, Vol. 16, No. 11.)

It is the only Cushion that possesses all the qualities essential to a Perfect Cushion. It is the most elastic and most durable Cushion ever offered to the billiard-playing public, as is abundantly proven by the great demand for it since its introduction. The peculiarity which distinguishes the Cat-Gut Cushion and renders it superior to all others, is the tightened cord of cat-gut which overlies the face and edge of the rubber and running the full length of the Cushion, which prevents the ball from bedding into the rubber and jumping from the tables. The addition of the cat-gut cord also adds much to the elasticity of the Cushion.

The Cat-Gut Cushion has already been applied to over 1000 tables, which are in constant use. It can be applied to tables of any make, for $75 per set.

Cavanagh & Decker's Factory, at the corner of Centre and Canal streets, N. Y., is the most complete of its kind in the world. The machinery is of the most improved character, the lumber drying room the largest in the United States, the material used the best that can be purchased, and the workmen thoroughly skilled.

Billiard Cloth, Balls, Cues and Trimmings, all of the best make, constantly on hand.

Kavanagh & Decker are the only agents in this country for Kay's Cue Cement, adjudged by competent authorities to be the best Cement ever used.

Our Latest Improved NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.

GROVESTEEN & CO.,
499 Broadway, N. Y.,

THESE instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, who, at our solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been pronounced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.

It has always been our policy, during the thirty-six years that we have manufactured Pianos, twelve thousand of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to give the finest instrument at the lowest cost. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to three hundred dollars less than any other First Class House.

The tone of these instruments are remarkable for their peculiar Sweetness and Great Brilliancy, never losing their quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register retaining its positiveness, does not destroy the middle and upper registers by mingling with them in disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of tone being equally delightful to the unpracticed and to the most cultivated ear.

They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four full round corners front and back, heavily carved legs and Lyre Serpentine Base richly moulded, and each instrument is fully warranted for five years. sep5 d&wly

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL FOR 1868.

ALBERT PIKE
EDITOR.

JNO. AINSLIE,
Cashier and Business Manager.

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL, NOW IN ITS Twenty-Ninth Year, is offered to the reading public of Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Alabama, it is believed, with superior inducements to any that have ever been presented to its numerous and rapidly increasing patrons. The stagnation in financial movements, the almost total cessation of trade, the paralysis in agricultural operations and the anomalous condition of political affairs, instead of counselling to inaction and discouraging enterprise and energy, should arouse our people to redouble their exertions, to extend their enterprise, and to rely with greater confidence and higher resolve upon their own indomitable and unquenchable courage and purpose. If there ever was a time when the people should be it is in such an emergency as the present. The temptation is strong to despair, and to surrender to the influence of fear and an almost overwhelming oppession. If we listen to the voice of the Siren and give up to despair, we are lost—irrecoverably lost. It behooves one and all to be up and doing, "with a heart for every fate, still achieving, still pursuing," until the book of our destiny shall be closed. We should hear of no compromise to make with the opposing genius of decay and destruction, which is seeking to drag us down. We should meet the enemy at every stage and wage an aggressive warfare upon him, until we expel him from the land. Poverty comes upon our beloved land and upon our patriotic people "like an armed man." Like "an armed man" we must assail him—with the same will, determination and courage with which he marches upon our homes and hearthstones. In such an emergency,

Fully Aroused and Wide Awake,

THE NEWSPAPER

Is the great and potent weapon with which we must carry on the campaign. We might as well at once surrender to the foe as to abandon this agency, which is, in fact, the artillery arm, both for defense and attack, in such a warfare. This great moral and political agent can only be rendered efficient and successful with the countenance, support and material assistance of the people. Never was there so cheap an aid employed to defend the right and to crush the oppressor. A people who are not willing to sustain an auxiliary which may be so potently used to defend their rights, and which can be employed at so inconsiderable an expense, are in the last stage of decrepitude and decline. And so an individual, who may be

FOUND TO DECRY THE PRESS,

Which in all free governments is known to be the most powerful lever, in the service of good government, must be either too imbecile for a freeman or too corrupt to receive the confidence and respect of his countrymen. It therefore happens that the people who sustain the Press with the greatest liberality and who rely upon its free utterance, with the highest confidence in its power to elicit the truth and defend the right, are always the freest and most independent people.

THE EPERGNE.

Heat! there was heat in Ravenna
On the last of the days of July;
The streets were as streets in a furnace,
As blinding to brain and to eye;
The light, how it rained from the zenith!
To brave it was simply to die.

The gables and porches fantastic
Their shadows capriciously cast,
And, creeping along by the houses,
A priest or two silently passed—
Nothing more, till the noon had departed,
And sunset and shade came at last.

Then to steal down the street to a garden,
All black with the sycamore's gloom,
Encircling a mansion of granite
As solemn and square as the tomb,
With windows not wider than loop-holes,
And portals befitting a tomb.

I could not resist it—that garden
So black in its sycamore night,
So gloomy, and cool, and inviting,
With branches excluding the light,
With broad, waving sycamore branches
Deliciously cool to the sight.

And there, at a window, a curtain
Of silken embroidery swung,
With stripings of amber and purple,
And bullion that heavily hung—
And to one of the sycamore branches
A corner, by accident, clung.

By accident only a corner
The branch of the sycamore raised,
And what, if a moment beneath it
I lingered and furtively gazed?
Enough that, entranced and bewildered,
I hopelessly lingered and gazed.

Ah! never did man in Ravenna
More radiant vision behold—
A woman with hair like a fountain,
Sun-lighted and gleaming with gold;
With features deliciously pensive,
And form of the Italian mould.

She heard not, she saw not my coming,
On the task of the moment intent—
On a golden epergne she was heaping
Rich fruits all confusedly blent;
And alike to the gold and the fruitage
The charm of her beauty she lent.

The grapes she was poising reflected
The light of her purple-black eyes,
And the flame of the cheeks of the peaches
Had part in HER cheek's burning dyes—
But red to the heart, the pomegranate,
With lips unsuccessfully vies.

A moment, and only a moment,
I lingered to gaze at the room;
But, far from the blazing Ravenna,
And far from the sycamore's gloom,

Under our former system of almost exclusive cotton culture, we were content to emulate each other, alone, in the expansion of our fields of the staple king. In fact, slave labor has an adaptation to no other kind of agricultural ambition; hence, the present is but "early dawn" of a day of unrivaled beauty, in which the latent glories of our sunny clime profuse, are to be developed; making these lately conquered Southern States the Eden of American.—Our own Paper.

"In endless sweets, above all praise of song,"

TAKE COURAGE.

Think not that the idea contained in the above heading is to be made a hobby, because so often repeated. Our only object is the encouragement of recuperative energy.

The war-blight has been upon us. The green herbage of our prosperity was nipped as by the biting of an early frost. The pride and prime of the summer of one period of our success ended with the beginning of hostilities; but let us hope for another. Can we not forego the chilly blasts which cause the "sluggard to plow not," that we may no longer "beg in harvest and have nothing?"

What has been said so often is yet worthy of repetition. We must leave behind our "lost cause," late troubles, present oppressions, and go to work in good earnest if we desire to enjoy prosperity again; remembering that there is nothing surer than the rewards of honest industry.

A CAUSE OF HARD TIMES.

A Girard (Illinois) correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, a Radical paper of the strictest sect, in speaking of the hard times says:

"I will add another reason of the existing hard times, and that is the enormous tax heaped upon us. * * * * There must be a remedy found, and that remedy must be speedily applied, or our country will be completely ruined. While men are following party demagogues, who are grinding them to death with every conceivable extravagance, they are blinding led to ruin."

The remedy for oppressive taxation is to greatly reduce our standing army and navy—abolish the Freedmen's Bureau—let the Southern negroes earn their own living, instead of subsisting at the nation's expense—the payment of the five-twenty bonds in greenbacks, thus saving to the people an immense interest which we are now paying upon them in gold—all of which greatly impoverish the people. This is the plan, and the only plan, which will materially lighten the burdens of the people in respect to taxes.

THE WHEAT CROP.

Next to the political developments at Washington and the price of cotton, there is no intelligence more calculated to interest our business men than that which relates to the wheat prospect in Tennessee. Last year the yield was unusally large and the price obtained remunerative; but we much fear that the coming season will not show such a satisfactory result.

The farmers in East Tennessee complain generally that the hard winter has injured the growing crop, but in some localities it presents a good appearance.

The following accounts from Middle Tennessee, reported by the Nashville Banner, may interest our readers:

In Wilson county, the crop was badly damaged during the recent cold weather. Reports from a great many farmers, in different portions of the county, shows that fully one half the crop is totally ruined. Another trouble is, there is no spring wheat on hand; if there were the farmers could replant, and probably make a goop crop yet. As it is, they will have to plow up their wheat fields and plant corn.

The crop in Hardeman county has also suffered considerable from the severity of the winter.

In Sumner, Smith, Macon and Jackson, the wheat has not, we learn, been as seriously injured as in other sections.

From Maury, Williamson, Marshall, Hickman and Franklin counties, we hear that, although many farmers have been so unfortunate as to lose almost their entire crop, the yield will be better than at first anticipated.

There is ground for apprehension that much of the wheat in Montgomery county has been destroyed by the long continued freeze and the drying of the surface—the roots having been thrown out and perishing for want of moisture and a hold upon the soil.—Chattanooga Union.
